You can either print the second page of this sheet or make your own using a ruler and pencil.

To make your own:

1. Use your pencil to mark several points 1cm from the edge of the paper all the way round.
2. Join up these points using your pencil and ruler to make a rectangle.
3. Mark several points 1cm inside the sides of the first rectangle all the way round.
4. Join these points up to make a second rectangle. You will then have a sheet that looks like the one on the second page.

For printing or handmaking you might also want to draw lines with a pencil and ruler lightly across the page to guide your letters and help you write straight. Alternatively, you could print the line guide on the third page and put it behind your paper. Paper clips would help to hold it in place.
